

Cooperation is the key to success

On November 21, 2019, a meeting of young scientists of the Paton Electric Welding Institute of the National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine was held with the Direction of the Innovation Center of the Scientific Institution "Kyiv Academic University" headed by Dr. of Physical and Mathematical Sciences O.V. Antoniuk, and students from the Vadym Hetman National Economic University of Kyiv under the guidance of Professor at the Department of Business Economics and Entrepreneurship, Dr. in Economic Sciences L.O. Ligonenko.

During the meeting, the issues of technology transfer between scientific institutions were considered as well as the issues of projects directions that modern Ukrainian companies need, and the dissemination of information about scientific institutions. The problems related to the implementation of innovations, the way to solve them and search for partners to invest in ready projects were also considered.

Some issues provoked the discussion between the participants of the meeting, among which are:

1. Possibilities of technology transfer establishment, development of startup projects on the basis of scientific work of the Paton Electric Welding Institute in collaboration with the Innovation Center of the Scientific Institution "Kyiv Academic University" and the Vadym Hetman National Economic University of Kyiv;
2. Availability of projects attractive for investments and developments ready for practical implementation; prospects for their commercialization;
3. Structuring the path from a scientific development to its practical implementation (business implementation); the value of “good packaging” (presentation) of an intellectual product for finding and attracting an investor;
4. PR-Promotion of the Public Organization at the Paton Electric Welding Institute;
5. The issues of modern online search platforms for partners, grant and competitive funding for young scientists' developments.

Inspired by the goals, the participants of the meeting have an informal conversation during a coffee break.

There is hope that this project will be successful and a good start for youth.
